SECOND EDITION .=

THE MANXMAN.

By HALL CAINE, author of "The Deemster," "Capt'n Davy's Honeymoon," "The Scapegoat," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"The Manxman,' we may say at once, confirms the author's claim to rank among the first novelists of the day. . . . The story is constructed and worked out with consummate skill, and, though intensely tragic, is lightened by some charming descriptions of scenery and local customs. The characters, even the minor ones, are closely studied and finely executed, and show a deep ex-perience and knowledge of human nature, in its lighter as well as darker aspects, such as only a master hand could faithfully have drawn."—London Literary World.

"In truth it is Mr. Caine's masterpiece, and congratulations are pouring in upon him from right and left. The story had only been issued a few hours when Mr. Gladstone wrote to the Isle of Man to express his admiration for the new success."—London Correspondence of the New York Critic.

"The book, as a whole, is on a rare level of excellence—a level which we venture to predict will always be rare."—London Chronicle.

"A singularly powerful and picturesque piece of work, extraordinarily dramatic. . . . Taken altogether, "The Manxman' cannot fail to enhance Mr. Hall Caine's reputation. It is a most powerful book."—London Standard.

"A story that will absorb thousands of readers, and

"The most powerful story that has been written in the present generation."-Edinburgh Scotsman.

"A book the construction and execution of which very few living European novelists could excel. The fulness of the texture in this last novel, the brilliancy of the successive episodes, the gravity and intensity of the sentiment, the art with which the ever-deepening central tragedy is relieved by what is picturesque and what is comic—all this has only to be seriously considered to be highly appreciated. 'The Manxman' is a contribution to the results of the most fastidious critic would give in expensions. literature, and the most fastidious critic would give in exchange for it a wilderness of that deciduous trash which our publishers call fiction."—EDMUND GOSSE, in St. James" Gasette.

"A work of rare merit and striking originality. . . . Indubitably the finest book that Mr. Hall Caine has yet produced. It is a notable contribution to the enrichment of English fiction and the advancement of its author's fame."—London Academy.

THE TRAIL OF THE SWORD.

By Gilbert Parker, author of "The Trespasser," "The Translation of a Savage," etc. No. 152, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

The romance of Canadian history has attracted Mr. Parker and Conan Doyle alike. Mr. Parker takes us from Albany to Quebec in the eighteenth century, and again on a voyage of adventure. It is a tale of love and of bitter hate. The title suggests the dramatic character of this fine historical romance, which is probably the most advanced work of this brilliant novelist.

ABANDONING AN ADOPTED FARM.

By Kate Sanborn, author of "Adopting an Abandoned Farm," "A Truthful Woman in Southern California," etc. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

As a promoter of good spirits, a contributor to the gayety of nations, Miss Kate Sanborn has gained a most enviable place among the writers of the day. Everybody laughed over her "Adoption" of her farm. Her "Abandonment" is, if possible, more vivacious and entertaining; and in view of the large sales of her former book, the new story of her extraordinary visitors, her agricultural misadventures, and the reasons for her flitting, seems certain to prove one of the most popular books of the season.

RACE AND LANGUAGE.

By André Lefèvre, Professor in the Anthropological School, Paris. No. 72, International Scientific Series.

Prof. Lefèvre has written in full sympathy with modern scientific research and in full possession of its latest results; moreover, he has made a book that is adapted to the needs of educated persons who are not advanced students of philology. He describes first the evolution of language, then the geographical distribution of languages and races, and closes with a somewhat comprehensive account of the Indo-European group of tongues.

D. APPLETON & CO., Publishers, 72 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

GOOD READING.

MISS HURD: AN ENIGMA.

By Anna Katharine Green, author of "The Leavenworth Case," etc., etc.
Being No. 2 of the Hudson Library. A series of good fiction, by authors from each side of the Atlantic. Bi-monthly issues. Entered as second-class matter.

Per number, 50 cents; yearly subscriptions, $3.00.

PEAK AND PRAIRIE.

From a Colorado Sketch-Book. By Anna Fuller, author of "Pratt Portraits," "A Literary Courtship," etc. 16mo, cloth, uniform with "A Literary Courtship," with a frontispiece by Louis Loeb, $1.00.

A LITERARY COURTSHIP.

Under the Auspices of Pike's Peak. By Anna Fuller, author of "Pratt Portraits." Fourth Edition. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.00.

"It is a book to read and enjoy either alone or with pleasant companions, and to make the reader glad that the author has given us such a charming combination of humor, naturalness, and originality."—Public Opinion, Washington, D. C.

AN ALTAR OF EARTH.

By THYMOL MONK. Published simultaneously in New York and London. With frontispiece by McCulloch. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

A gracefully written story of the present day, which will at once arouse the sympathy of the reader in hehalf of the young girl whose sufferings made her such an ardent lover of nature. "The Altar of Earth," which was dedicated to her memory, proved a priceless boom to the poor of the neighboring city, enabling them to enjoy some of the delights which she had experienced in her communings with Pan.

A HUSBAND OF NO IMPORTANCE.

By "RITA." Being No. 4 of the Incognito Library. Oblong 24mo, limp cloth, each, 50 cents.

LESSER'S DAUGHTER.

By Mrs. Andrew Dean. Being No. 3 in the Incognito Library. Oblong 24mo, limp cloth, each, 50 cents.

FOUND AND LOST.

By MARY PUTNAM-JACOBI. Being No. 2 in the Autonym Library. Issued in co-operation with Mr. Unwin, of London. Copyrighted for the United States. Oblong 24mo, limp cloth, each, 50 cents.

"The books that form or will form this series are of the now very popular oblong shape, easily carried in the coat pocket, printed on fine paper in clear, large type. In the make-up of the volumes there is nothing to be desired, and if the contents are of equal excellence then they will become most popular."—Boston Times.

QUITS.

By the Baroness TAUTPHŒUS. Leonora Edition. 2 volumes, 12mo, uniform with the Hildegarde edition of "The Initials," $2.50.

"Readers who were unborn when her books first delighted the literary world will enjoy them, and their fathers and mothers will have their old enjoyment revived."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE ARTIFICIAL MOTHER.

A Marital Fantasy. By G. H. P. With six illustrations by Van Deusen. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

THE STORY OF VENICE.

From the Earliest Times to the Fall of the Republic. By ALETHEA WIEL. Being a new volume in the Story of the Nations. Illustrated. Large 12mo, cloth, each, $1.50; half leather, $1.75.

CICERO, AND THE FALL OF THE ROMAN REPUBLIC.

have been unfairly condemned by their neighbors. The father, it is true, was a worthless spendthrift, and the mother, originally a ballet-dancer, had eloped with her coachman when her youngest daughter was a year old, but the three girls of the family had many noble and admirable qualities, which are brought out in their various careers. The youngest girl, a great beauty, is the heroine, who before she is safely married goes through some painful experiences. Scenes and characters are English.

A family, consisting of father, mother, and two sons, live upon a cattle-ranch among the Rocky Mountains. At sunset one evening a strange woman comes to their door and they take her to help the rheumatic mother do the work. This woman's history, her sturdy faith in literal Bible interpretation, her sense of forgiveness received after the commission of crime, and the great love for her employer's son are told. Conversations are in dialect and the descriptions of nature among the mountains are full of poetry.

Lesser Bremen, an English Jew, and a poor clerk, unexpectedly became a very rich man in his twenty-fifth year, through the death of an American relative. He at once went in search of a wife, and found one in Vienna—a beautiful woman, who accepted him only for his money. The daughter born of this union is the heroine of the story. Her mother wishes her to marry an Austrian count, who turns out an impostor, while her father would give her to a poor, but honorable Englishman. The story ends with a tragedy.

Du Maurier, G. Trilby: a novel; il. by the author. N. Y., Harper, 1894. c. 6+464 p.

D. cl., $1.75.

Three English artists, known familiarly as "The Laird," "Taffy," and "Little Billee," have a studio in common in the Quartier Latin of Paris. Trilby is a beautiful young girl of English and Irish extraction, an artist's model, and a thorough Bohemian, who is admitted to close comradeship with the three friends. Out of this companionship grow the incidents of the story, which are beautifully pathetic. The power of hypnotism in the hands of an unscrupulous man is startlingly illustrated in part of Trilby's career. Art life and the artists of some thirty years ago, both of England and France, receive delightful illustrations from Du Maurier's pen and pencil.

Che Bublishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 15, 1894.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the ws expressed in contributed articles or communications All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the Weekly solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of The Publishers' Weekly is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States. bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."-LORD BACON.

OUR FOREIGN COPYRIGHT RELA-TIONS.

THE International Copyright Congress, which has just closed its sittings at Antwerp, during the discussion of the subject of "The Copyright Law of America as it affects other nations," gave occasion to a number of orators to abuse the United States. Very strong feeling was expressed; indeed, our international copyright law was denounced as a "disgrace to a civilized country," and the United States was branded as "the refuge of the literary pirate and filcher."

So far as the first arraignment is concerned, and the reproach comes from the continental authors, we must bow our heads. For when we consider the generous treatment of our native writers by such governments, for instance, as Germany and France, we have really very little to say for ourselves, excepting that our intentions were good, and our law-makers—weak. Our term of copyright is forty-two years, one of the shortest in modern legislation, and is burdened with disagreeable limitations and requirements, such as simultaneous publication and remanufacture in the United States; our copyright statutes are clumsily framed and contradictory; and our registration, though we demand a double copyright fee from foreigners, affords little practical protection. In Germany, on the other hand, no formalities are required except registration, for which the fee (thirty-six cents) is the same to native and stranger, and secures to the author a definite right in his work; the statutes are logical and easily defended from trespass, while the term of protection given by them extends thirty years beyond the life of the author, whatever may be the length of his life. Under these circumstances we cannot find it unreasonable that the Germans and the French (whose laws have much in common), in discussing our copyright relations, should warm up and use strong language, notwithstanding the fact that we give them a sprat in exchange for a whale.

But when our English brethren set out to abuse us we are inclined to except. Aside from the restriction of the "manufacturing clause," the English author enjoys very much the same privileges here that our authors have in England. Indeed, it was particularly with the English author in mind that our law was framed; that it does not at the outset meet every exigency, is a matter which will no doubt in time be set straight. In the meantime it offers to English authors the same measure of protection as England offers Americans, if only they choose to comply with certain necessary and clearly-defined formalities. And to the authors of other countries, also, do our copyright statutes, with all their imagined and real defects, now offer a measure of protection that deserves to meet with recognition rather than abuse.

ZOLA's recent remark to the Paris correspondent of the New York Sun, that "literature is to-day a closed career" will no doubt be met with a general demurrer. The cry that "there is nothing new under the sun" is centuries old, during which time, nevertheless, the fields of literature, art, and science have been ploughed over and over again, and harvests of the golden grain of new ideas have been reaped in the hope of greater ones to come. When we consider the many channels opened and barely worked as yet by the invasion of modern science and scientific methods; the novel situations, social and political, giving to genius the opportunity to analyze their causes and consequences; and, further, that the audience of the writer is constantly increasing as illiteracy slowly but surely passes away, we are forced to the conclusion that literature, so far from being a "closed career," is now more open than ever for successful exploit.

It has been discovered that the contents of most of the books carted around New York City on tip-carts are manipulated and condensed so that in some cases only two-thirds or one-half of the original book is left. This is said to be notoriously so with translations of the works of foreign authors, the publishers of which seem to know that the bulk of their output will finally reach the bargain-counters and street-stands, and so skimp accordingly.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS IN RELATION TO BOOKS, Etc.

The summary statement of the imports and exports of the United States for the month ending July 31, 1894, and for the seven months ending the same, compared with the corresponding periods of 1893 (corrected to August 29, 1894), makes the following showing as regards books, etc.:

THE FIRST ENGLISH BIBLE PRINTED IN AMERICA.

THE New York Times lends currency to the statement made in the Albany Evening Journal that Gen. Charles W. Darling has prepared the following article on the first Bible printed in English in America:

"The first Bible printed in English in America was the 'Bay Psalm Book,' printed in 1640. Prior to this time every copy of the Bible in this country had been brought to America by the early settlers of Virginia and the Pilgrim Fathers of New England, for the colonists could not print the English Bible without being subject to prosecution from persons in Great Britain who published it under a patent from the Crown."

General Darling, the Journal, and the Times have evidently overlooked the fact that the so-called "Bay Psalm Book" is not a literal translation of the whole Bible, but simply a metrical rendering of the psalms. The whole Bible was not printed in this country until 1752, and then surreptitiously by Kneeland & Green, two Boston printers, who used the London imprint of "Mark Baskett. Printer to the King's most Excellent Majesty." The circumstances under which this and some other early American issues of the Bible were printed were fully described in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, June 10, 1893 (vol. XLIII., p. 883).

In the same article the impression is also given that the first Irish translation of the Bible was issued in 1640. King's version of the New Testament in Erse was not published until 1681, the Old Testament not until 1685; and, as a matter of fact, the two books bound together, thus making the Bible complete, were not issued until some time after the year 1685. The author of the paragraph has no doubt confused the completion of the manuscript with the actual printing of the book.

A BOOK THAT CRAWLS.

VERY few readers, says London Answers, ever dream that there is any single piece of readingmatter in the world which lives, breathes, and circulates on its own individual account.

But any one who will take the trouble to walk into a certain shop in Piccadilly, not far from the Egyptian Hall, will be rewarded by seeing a species of snake, known as the lemon boa, with the whole of the third chapter of Genesis tattooed on its body. The reptile is only lent for exhibition, but the gentleman who purchased it states that on board the South American sailing vessel, the scene of this remarkable tattooing, it is a common diversion among the sailors to capture live snakes, extract their fangs, and cover the body with any number of inscriptions, legends, and devices, and then dispose of the reptiles at the first port.

Few of the purchasers, however, care to have charge of live snakes—be they ever so harmless so it is customary to either stuff these latter with fine straw and putty, or else immerse them in alcohol, although this process commonly has the effect of taking all the brilliancy out of the pigments employed.

In the case of long and extremely fine inscriptions, alcohol, however, shows up and preserves these to great advantage. A sailor spent six months in tattooing one of the "Sketches by Boz," containing 4520 words, upon the skin of a rattle-snake, which he afterwards sold to a gentleman for eight guineas.

SALE OF PLATES OF THE WORTHING-TON COMPANY.

THE electrotype plates of the following books belonging to the late Worthington Company were sold on the 12th inst., at the prices and to the parties mentioned below. The Mr. "Clark" who bought the plates of Payne's translations of the "Arabian Nights," "Aladdin," and "Tales from the Arabic," it was understood acted as intermediary, but for whom, could not be learned at the time of our going to press learned at the time of our going to press:

"Arabian Nights." The Book of the Thousand Nights and One Night, done into English prose and verse, from the original Arabic, by John Payne. 9 vols., 3351 pp. London, 1884. $76 per volume. Clark.

"Alæddin and the Enchanted Lamp." "Zein Ul Asnam and the King of the Jinn." Two stories done into English from the recently discovered Arabic text by John Payne, of the Villon Society. (The concluding volume to and uniform with Payne's "Arabian Nights.") 1 vol., 8vo, 280 pp. $62.50. Clark.

"Tales from the Arabic." Tales not occurring in any other edition of the literal translation of the "Arabian Nights." Done into English by John Payne. 3 vols., 8vo. 914 pp. $79 per volume. Clark.

Fielding (Henry). "The History of Tom Jones, a foundling." 12mo, 499 pp. $110. F. M. Lupton Pub. Co., 13 Walker St., N. Y.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Louis Phillippe Albert D'Orleans, Comte de Paris, the eldest grandson and heir of King Louis Phillippe of France, died at the Stowe House. Buckinghamshire, Eng., on the 8th inst., aged fifty-six years. He served for a year—1861-62—on McClellan's staff, and afterward wrote a history, not only of his own experience therein, but of the whole Civil War, which has become a standard work not only in French, in which it was written, but in English, into which it was translated. The Count also busied himself with philosophic observations of political and social affairs, writing numerous articles for the Revue des Deux Mondes on the cotton distress in Lancashire, trade unionism in England, the disestablishment of the Irish Church, the liberal movement in Germany, and other like topics. His writings on trade unionism were published in book form.

PROF. HERMANN LUDWIG FERDINAND VON HELMHOLTZ, the distinguished German physiologist and natural philosopher, died in Berlin on the 8th inst., aged seventy-three years. Helmholtz was born in Potsdam, and was professor of anatomy first in the Academy of Fine Arts in Berlin, then professor of physiology in Königsberg, Heidelberg, and, subsequently, in Berlin, where he resided until his death. His works refer principally to the physiological conditions of the impressions of the senses. Among the best known of these are: "On the Preservation of Forces," 1874; "Manual of Physiological Optics," 1856; and "Theory of the Impressions of Sound," 1862.

PROF. HEINRICH KARL BRUGSCH, the distinguished linguist and Egyptologist, died in Berlin on the 10th, aged sixty-seven, having been born in Berlin February 18, 1827. Hehad spent most of his time since 1853 in Egypt. In 1868 he received the title of Bey, and as Brugsch-Bey through English translations of two of his books—" History of Egypt under the Pharaohs" and "True Story of the Exodus of Israel"—he became known to American readers. Some time ago Tewfik raised Brugsch to the rank of Pasha. He wrote in French the greater part of his valuable works on Egypt.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

C. E. BOLLES VS. NEW YORK WORLD FOR UN-AUTHORIZED USE OF PHOTOGRAPH.

ANOTHER suit for damages has been instituted in the United States Circuit Court against the New York World. The complainant is Charles E. Bolles, a photographer of Brooklyn, who sues for $817,000 for the publication of a copyrighted photograph without the owner's permission. Mr. Bolles took a picture of the sloop yacht Colonia as she lay in Narragansett Bay on June 20, 1893. This he subsequently had copyrighted. The World, however, printed the picture and refused Mr. Bolles any recompense. The complainant asserts that 800,000 copies of the paper have been sold, and he is entitled to $1 for each copy. He also claims $1000 for the plate and $16,000 for the paper.

The World was forced to pay Benjamin J. Falk a certain amount a few months ago for a similar violation of a copyright.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

DR. GEORGE MACDONALD has recently completed the MS. of a new story, entitled "Lilith," which is written somewhat in the style of his "Phantastes."

MRS. MANNINGTON CAFFYN, the author of "A Yellow Aster," has completed the MS. of a new novel, entitled "Children of Circumstances," which will be published in the fall.

JAMES L. FORD has made a collection of his sarcastic skits on literary men and methods in New York, which is soon to be published in book form under the title of "The Literary Shop."

THE new Revue de Paris has secured as serials the next novels of Alphonse Daudet ("Quinze Ans de Mariage"), Paul Bourget (Une Idylle Tragique"), and Ludovic Halévy ("Deux Jeunes Filles").

ALPHONSE DAUDET has completed a novel called "La Petite Paroisse," dealing with a powerful domestic story, the scene of which is laid in the same district as Zola's "La Terre," but the treatment of which is, of course, from a wholly different point of view.

ANTHONY HOPE has arranged with Jerome K. Jerome to write a series of short stories for publication in To-Day. They will probably run during the latter half of next year. Mr. Hope has recently completed another series, entitled "The Chronicles of Count Antonio," which will be published in the early part of next year in one of the English monthly magazines.

THE late Steele Mackaye finished shortly before his death a novel to which he had given a great deal of thought, and which he declared would create a sensation. In his warning to his readers, he seeks to "rebuke the dogmatism of science, and the deadly spiritual indolence of credulity." It will be published shortly by the Deshler-Welsh Publishing Company, of New York City, under the title of "Father Ambrose: the revelations of May 3, '68."

NATHAN G. POND'S unfinished work, "A History of Milford." is to be completed by his long-time friend and co-worker, Miss Louise Tracy, herself an authority on all matters relating to the important families of those stirring times. Miss Tracy has also ready for publication a historical novel called "Great Grandmother, or, the maid of Milford," a tale of the Revolution, which she has dedicated to the "Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, and to the Relatives and Descendants of Lucy Pardee Burwell." Miss Tracy is a great-granddaughter of the heroine, and the story covers the period between 1765 and 1839.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Inventive World is the title of a new monthly journal devoted to science, engineering, and the mechanical arts, published by the American Patent Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y.

ROY W. CRABB, of Lima, O., edits and publishes monthly The Booksellers' Friend, which as it seems to address itself almost exclusively to newsdealers, seems a misnomer. The editor, however, leaves no doubt as to his opinions on the subjects he handles—they are plain, and straight from the shoulder. The tone, though "sassy," is unmistakable, and is bound to shake up friends and foes alike. We wish the newcomer good luck.

THE twelve papers published by E. C. Allen & Co., the large Augusta (Me.) publishing concern which recently suspended business, have been consolidated into the following five periodicals formerly issued by Allen & Co.: Sunshine, Golden Moments, the Practical Housekeeper, the National Farmer, and the Daughters of America. They are printed, mailed, and sent out from the publishing establishment of W. H. Gannett, under the name of S. W. Lane & Co.

THE American Agriculturist is going to be changed into a series of five weeklies for five different parts of the country, and five sub-editions for different parts of those editions. The Orange Judd Company has bought the New England Homestead from the Phelps Company, and will use that for its New England edition. It has also bought the Orange Judd Farmer, of Chicago. The new weeklies will all be of magazine form, each with thirty-two pages and a cover. The Phelps Company will continue to publish Farm and Home and the city edition of the Springfield Homestead.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have in press a copyright edition of a new novel, entitled "The Birth of a Soul," by Mrs. A. Phillips, author of "Man Proposes."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in the press a work entitled "Documents Illustrating English Economic History," by Mr. W. J. Ashley, professor of political economy in Harvard University.

JOHN C. NIMMO, London, will publish at once a biography of John Addington Symonds, by Horatio F. Brown, Mr. Symonds' literary legatee and executor. The work will be in two volumes and will be illustrated.

READERS of the Elsie books will learn with regret that Miss Finley's recent indisposition has made a few weeks' rest absolutely necessary, and that in consequence the publication of her forthcoming book, " Elsie at the World's Fair," which she had almost finished writing, will have to be postponed.

THE New York Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective and Benevolent Association held their fourth annual festival at Lion Park, New York, on the evening of the 14th inst. The affair was well attended and reflected great credit upon the president, T. F. Martin, and the reception committee, of which J. E. McBride was chairman.

STONE & KIMBALL expect to issue in October the first two volumes of their new edition of Poe, edited by Mr. Stedman and Prof. Woodberry. The illustrations will be most interesting, as, in addition to the portraits and facsimiles, a series of drawings by Albert Edward Sterner will be reproduced. The large-paper edition will contain a signed etching by Mr. Sterner, and eight illustrations by Aubrey Reardslev.

APROPOS of Uzanne's clever fantasy, an extract from which we printed in our issue of September I, the phonograph is gradually finding its way to industrial application. In the office of the Pall Mall Magazine articles are spoken into the cylinder, which is then sent to the printer, where it is set in a duplicate machine in which it winds off its message at the pace set by the compositor, who works by ear. The proof-reader uses the phonograph in the same way, and this doesaway with the need of a copyholder.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish next month "The Ralstons," Mr. Crawford's sequel to Katharine Lauderdale," which is now in its tenth edition. On one of the first-leaves of the minth edition is printed this legend: "Set up and electrotyped, February, 1894. Reprinted in March. Twice in April. In May. In June. Twice in July. In August." Now if the number of thousands printed had been given we might be able to judge whether or not the book is really the "record breaker" it appears to be.

ELKIN MATHEWS and John Lane, London, who at first individually and then collectively achieved considerable reputation as publishers of unique and eccentric, but above all well-made books, have parted company, amicably and according to previous agreement. Mr. Mathews retains the present premises on Vigo Street, and will carry on both publishing and the second-hand book trade, but discards the name of the "Bodley Head," which has been wont to figure on many of the publications of the firm. Mr. Lane will confine himself to publishing only.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

THE ROWFANT CLUB, Cleveland, Ohio, announces a "Bibliography of Henry David Thoreau," prepared by Samuel Arthur Jones.

MR. FISKE gives in the appendix to his "History of the United States for Schools," recently published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., a very interesting statement in regard to the derivation of the names of the different States of our Union, together with a full bibliography of State histories. This portion of the appendix is extremely interesting, and is fuller and more complete than anything of the kind ever before published.

A NEW BOOK BY MAX O'RELL.

(READY SEPTEMBER 19.)

The Great Colonial Branches of the Firm, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

By MAX O'RELL, author of "John Bull and His Island," "Jonathan and His Continent," "A Frenchman in America," etc., etc.

Max O'Rell's latest book is a much more ambitious piece of work than anything which he has previously done. It is often reminiscent of the author's pleasant impressions of the United States upon his late visits, and gives him an opportunity for entertaining comparisons between the Yankee and his cousins in the English colonies, Canada, Australia, California, and Hawaii are visited in turn, and valuable information about these places and their people is interwoven with spirited comments by the author. It does not concern itself with the people of any special country, but is an account of the whole Anglo-Saxon race all over the world. It is practically a humorous study of the development of the English-speaking character under all manner of conditions and climates, from the tropics of North Queensland to ice-bound Winnipeg. The book is illustrated with numerous full-page and text illustrations. It will be published simultaneously in England, France, and America.

Stamped Cloth, Small 8vo, 325 Pages, Illustrated, $1.50.

The Sherman Letters.

Correspondence between General and Senator Sherman

Correspondence between General and Senator Sherman from 1837 to 1891. Edited by RACHEL SHERMAN THORN-DIKE. With portraits. 8vo, $3.00.

This correspondence is unique in furnishing a familiar and intimate record of the events of American history during an important period, with the frank comments on the incidents and the actors in them by two persons, themselves participants, and men of extraordinary penetration and power. Especially interesting and valuable is the fraternal discussion, often from different points of view, of the men and measures of the war epoch.

Three Years of Arctic Service.

An Account of the Lady Franklin Bay Expedition of 1881-84, and the Attainment of the Farthest North. By Gen. A. W. Greely. New Popular Edition, fully illustrated. 8vo, $5.00.

From the Preface.—"In preparing this popular edition all the photographic reproductions have been retained and only such portions of the text have been omitted as bear on scientific and historical matters, unessential to a full understanding of the expedition. The narrative is unbroken, the journals of the sledging parties are complete, the hazardous boat journey and ice drift are described in full, and the story of the sufferings and endurance of the party, abandoned to 'a shelterless winter on the barren crags of Sabine, remains in its integrity."

Travels Amongst the Great Andes of the Equator. By Edward Whymper. With maps and 140 original illustrations, drawn by various artists, and engraved by the author. New and cheaper edition. 8vo, $4.00.

This new edition of Mr. Whymper's work is complete in every respect, both as to text and illustrations.

Dogmatic Theology.

Vol. III. Supplement. By William G. T. Shedd, D.D., Professor in Union Theological Seminary. 8vo, $4.00.

The purpose of this supplementary volume is to elaborate more carefully some of the difficult points in specific unity, partly by original explanations by the author, and partly by extracts from that class of theologians who have adopted it.

A Primer of Psychology.

By Prof. GEORGE T. LADD, Yale University. 12mo, $1.00,

LAURA E. RICHARDS.

NEARLY READY.

Marie. A companion to "Melody," by the same author. 16mo, cloth, uniform in size and general style with "Melody," "Narcissa," etc. 50 cents.

A charming story, in Mrs. Richards' best vein, which will remind its readers somewhat of "Melody," its interest centring around the wanderings of Marie, a little French girl.

JUST ISSUED.

and a companion story, "In Verona," being two new delightful short stories of New England life, by Laura E. Richards. 16mo, cloth, uniform in general style with "Melody," etc. 50 cents.

Few short stories of recent times have equalled—certainly not excelled—in exquisite beauty, in delicacy of touch, the charmingly quaint picture of "Narcissa" or of the delightful modern "Romeo and Juliet" in "Verona." These two stories will unquestionably rank as Mrs. Richards' best work so far, and it is perfectly safe to predict that no one who picks the volume up and commences to read will drop it until both stories have been read to the finish.
